

Hey Breanna,

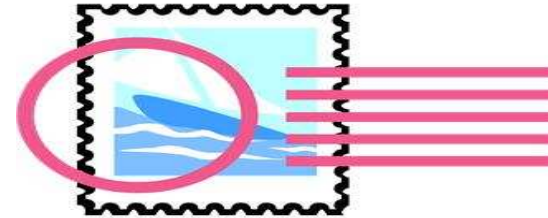

You'll never believe where I am. In England touring Stonehenge. The rocks look way bigger in person. Salisbury Plain is a great place to be, it's so beautiful here!

While I was touring I learned so many things about Stonehenge. Did you know that Stonehenge was built over 4,500 years ago? I sure didn't. Can you believe that these slabs of rocks weigh up to 45 tonnes? Imagine having to carry one 30 km away. Impossible you say? But the farmers proved you wrong. Because they moved it that far, they even built Stonehenge too! I wonder how long that took them. The tour guide said that they were made for spiritual or scientific purposes, but that's just what he heard from scientists. But they're not sure. Well I got to go my tour groups leaving me!

See you soon,

Ana Lopena

P.S. I hope you don't miss me too much. I'll be sure to get you a keychain! A.L.
